

Marek Tokarz

Full Professor at the Chair of Social Psychology of Silesian University in Katowice and at the Chair of Sociology of Higher College of Management and Sciences in Tychy; he also conducts seminars in L.Koźmiński Higher College of Business and Management in Warsaw, as well as in Jagiellonian University of Kraków. His research interests include, among others: logic, theory of argumentation and social communication. He is the author of over one hundred twenty scientific and popular-science works, including eight books. He took part in a number of research projects, conferences and international symposia (among others, in Germany, Italy, Great Britain, the USA, Holland, Greece, Bulgaria and Russia). Some of his longer stays at foreign scientific centers include: University of Pittsburgh, University of California in Los Angeles and Institute for Advanced Study in the Netherlands. He is a holder of Fullbright program scholarship, a member of a few boards of editors and scientific associations (among others, International Pragmatics Association, International Communication Association). *

* from the cover of the book:

Marek Tokarz, „ARGUMENTACJA. PERSWAZJA. MANIPULACJA. Wykłady z teorii komunikacji”, GWP 2006

